

Tami McDaniels, M.A.

9th Grade English

Tami McDaniels is a lifelong bookworm who has always enjoyed literature and writing. She holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Modern Languages and a Master of Arts degree with Honors in English from the University of Central Oklahoma.

Ms. McDaniels spent the first half of her career as a grant writer, writing grants for public service and non-profit organizations. Inspired by her time with Learn and Serve America, she transitioned into teaching, driven by a desire to empower students through service-learning projects.

Since then, Ms. McDaniels has taught students of all ages and in various educational settings, from traditional classrooms to online platforms and homeschool environments. She has also worked as a school principal and teaches English Comp I and II at the collegiate level.

Ms. McDaniels lives with her husband, Andy, in Luther, Oklahoma. As empty nesters, they cherish family time while indulging in their shared love for nature, culinary adventures, sports, reading, and writing.
